TEXAS COUNCIL for DEVELOPMENTAL DISABILITIES

The Texas Council for Developmental Disabilities is supported through grant number 2101TXSCDD00 from the U.S. Administration for Community Living (ACL), Department of Health & Human Services, Washington, D.C. 20201. Grantees receiving government sponsorship are encouraged to express their findings and conclusions. Opinions do not necessarily represent official ACL policy.

Americans are living longer than ever before and that includes adults with intellectual and developmental disabilities (IDD). The number of adults with IDD over the age of 60 is projected to nearly double within the next 10 years. But what does aging with disability look like?

Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Service, in partnership with the Texas Council for Developmental Disabilities, will host a webinar series on the emerging topic of aging with intellectual and developmental disabilities. The three-part series will discuss aging with disabilities versus aging into disabilities, health and wellness resources for the aging population with IDD and their caregivers, and the role of caregivers and family supports on self-supported autonomy and supported decision-making.

Accommodations:

Communication Access Real-time Translation (CART) will be provided for this webinar series. If you require additional accommodations to participate, please contact Morgan Bradley morgan.bradley@ag.tamu.edu at least four days prior to the event.
